

Rosemary Sage

PhD, M.Phil., BA, LRCSLT, Dip, IPA, Dip. APS, PGCE (Ed, Psych), MRCSLT, FCOT, MACT, MLA, MA Fellow, JP, PGC – Neurology, Linguistics, Psycholinguistics, NVC, Leadership & Management, Educational Robotics

Professor Doctor Rosemary Sage is a qualified speech pathologist, psychologist and teacher; former Dean at the College of Teachers, where she led the first Practitioner Doctorate, sponsored by the European Commission. She was Director of Speech and Language Services in Leicester/Leicestershire; a Teacher in Primary and Secondary schools; Senior Language Advisor to an LEA; an Academic in 4 universities: Head of Department and Professor of Communication at Liverpool and a visiting Professor in Cuba and Japan. Rosemary was on the Queen's Panel for Education and Industry Awards. She also sat on the Lord Chancellor's Advisory Committee as a senior magistrate (Chairperson and Judicial Mentor) and on the judicial executive was a member of the Magistrates in the Community (MIC) project. She sat on a national committee for education, training and professional development. Rosemary was a founder member of the Children's Legal Panel and expert witness for educational appeals; on Parliamentary Committees for Medicine and Education, the Teaching of Medical Sciences, Inclusion of Students with Special Needs; and Education Advisor to the Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists. She has been a trustee of several charities, a school governor and member of many research boards. Rosemary has led international research projects on language, education and employment and medical-educational issues (e.g. Intercultural Communication Lead on the EU 27 Nation Project on Diversity). Rosemary has published many books and over 150 refereed papers in journals. National/ international awards have been gained for the Communication Opportunity Group Strategy (COGS). Rosemary is a winner of the Kenneth Allsop Memorial Prize, Bullard Prize, Gimson Award, International Human Communication Network Medal, College of Teacher's Research Award and Leverhulme Fellowship + others. She is a Millennium; TCOT Fellow, SEND Director for the Learning for Life Educational Trust and Scientific Advisor at Abai University, Kazakhstan and is on the publications board of the University for Economics and Innovation, Lublin, Poland, plus a Judge for the English-Speaking Union.

“Higher Education heightens excellence, esteem, earnings, eagerness, exploration, engagement, enjoyment, erudition, enthusiasm, endorsement, and eloquence. There is no end to the benefits.”