

David Palfreyman, OBE FRSA

Fellow of New College, the University of Oxford; and Director of OxCHEPS

David Palfreyman is the Director of the Oxford Centre for Higher Education Policy Studies (OxCHEPS), based at New College Oxford; and was a member of the Board of the Office for Students (OfS) for some six years. David regularly lectures on Higher Education policy, governance, and management; especially on legal matters relating to the running of universities.

He is the joint editor of the 27 volumes Routledge/Taylor & Francis 'Comparative International Studies in Higher Education' series; and of the 17 volumes on 'The Management of Universities.' His more recent publication is 'Universities and Colleges: A Very Short Introduction' (Oxford University Press, 2017, £7.99). His OUP treatise on 'The Law of Higher Education' is now in its third edition (2021), and his volume of 'The Oxford Tutorial' (Amazon edition, 2019) is also available in Chinese or Korean.
